BEDFORD, England — Farmer Drek Donkin expects to make £5,000 from a crop he never planted. Thousands of mushrooms suddenly sprouted this year in one of his fields. Experts say the mushroom spawn had probably been dormant underneath the field for centuries.

Bears Menace District Cattle

EGG LAKE — Bears are getting to be more of a menace than ever. After devouring a fair-sized calf belonging to Joseph L'Heureux, they now are eating Albert Girard's pigs. So far three pigs have been eaten.

Traps were set with baits, but Mr. Bear was too wise. He ate the bait, but was not caught. A few farmers watched all night, trying to get a chance at killing him, but he evaded them. Finally, with the aid of the Fish and Game inspector, a trap was set with dynamite. The charge went off all right. It was expected the bear would be shot to pieces, but all they could find was blood and no body. He has not been seen and has done no more damage since.

Beekeepers also complain that the bears are damaging the hives and stealing the honey.

Parents should be well advised not to let their children go far away from home, as they might be in danger.

Dolphus Boucher, 21, Roy Boucher, 17 and Garry Harpe, 16, each pleaded guilty to the charges and were sentenced as follows:

Dolphus Boucher, two and one-half years in Prince Albert penitentiary for the Hamar break-in and two and one-half years for the Tri-Way break-in, to run concurrently.

Roy Boucher, two years in Fort Saskatchewan gaol for the Hamar break-in and two years lass one day for the Tri-Way break-in, with sentences to run concurrently.

Garry Harpe, one year in Fort Saskatchewan gaol for the Hamar break-in and one year for the Tri-Way break-in with sentences to run currently.

A fourth man involved in the crime, Joe Harpe, was being held in custody of police in Fort McMurray and was to be tried there.

Magistrate Franchuk recommended Bowden School for Boys for Garry Harpe.

The youths gained entry to Hamar's store by forcing a rear door. Some merchandise and about $45 in cash were taken.

Tri-Way Service Station was entered by breaking a window. Cigaretes and chocolate bars were taken. An attempt was also made to break into the Lac la Biche Mercantile but the attempt was abandoned.

Garry Harpe was given the lighter sentence as the court found him to be an accessory to the crime. Roy Boucher was also an accessory to the crime but was given the heavier sentence because he was involved in a break-in at Hamar's store five years ago, making this his second offence.

The Homemaker

By B. M. McCUTCHEON, District Home Economist, Westlock

Potato Salad is a Canadian favorite but too often, when served by inexperienced homemakers, it is tasteless. Why? "I often have this question asked" says Home Economist, Dorothy Batcheller. Usually, according to Miss Batcheller, the solution is to make the salad far enough in advance for the potato to absorb the flavours of the other ingredients (allow 30 minutes in the refrigerator); otherwise, pour a tablespoon or two of well-seasoned French Dressing and a little chopped fresh or dehydrated onion over the cubed or mashed potatoes, stir and set in refrigerator while preparing other ingredients.

B. McCutcheon

Good additions to the potato salad are chopped hard cooked eggs, cu-Cubes of ripe banana add intriguing cumber, celery, and green onions. flavour to potot salad. Mix ingredients with potato, add salad dressing to moisten and serve.

INSTANT POTATO SALAD

For a speedy potato salad, make it with Instant Mashed Potato.

Prepare required amount of Instant Mashed Potatoes according to package directions. says the Poultry Institute of Canada, adding a little well-seasoned liquid type salad dressing (French, etc.) to water before mixing in potato. Allow 2 to 3 teaspoons of liquid dressing per cup of mashed potato.

When potatoes are blended and fluffy, add a teaspoon per cup of onion and chill. When cold add, per fineul chopped fresh or dehydrated cup of potato, ½ to 1 chopped hard-cooked egg, 1 tablespoon finely sliced green onion (stem included), two to three thinly sliced radishes, ¼ cup finely diced celery and salad dressing to flavour.

Instant Potato Salad may be moulded in lightly buttered loaf pan or bowl or individual custard cups. Turn out on lettuce and garnish with sliced stuffed olives, tomato wedges or parsley and paprica. Salad made 1 cup of Instand Mashed Potato yields 2 to 3 servings.

LAVENDER SACHETS

Make lavender sachets - without - sewing by putting two or three tablespoons of the dried flowers in the centre of a dainty handkerchief, pull up the corners and tie in a ball with ribbon, finishing with a hook for hanging. Never put loose lavender with wool blankets or sweaters. The flowers will eat into the wool and leave small holes.

Flat Lake Water Level Change Up To Residents On Lake Edge

A proposal was heard by the County of Athabasca Council at that group's meeting earlier this month in regard to lowering the water level in Flat Lake. The petitioners made it clear they did not wish to drain the lake, but just to lower the water. There were several inlets, all flowing strongly, and only the one outlet. and it was felt if this were lowered, and gates provided, a more steady level year after year could be achieved in Flat Lake.

The council felt it was not up to that body, but up to the people who had land bordering on Flat Lake. If the petitioners can interest the rest of the immediate locality, the matter will be taken to Water Resources.

H. B. Watson of Colinton appeared before the council with an alternative plan for the site of the road from Boyle to Colinton, as it enters Colinton. Considerable discussion was given the alternative route, but it was painted out that if a change in the route were to be petitioned now, it would probably mean no road till next year. Council also felt that since Mr. Watson was the only one dissatisfied with the present route, that the majority were glad to have it where it is. before he left. he was thanked for his interest in community affairs and for the work he had done on the maps, etc. he had presented to council.

Chairman Loxam made a detailed report on his inspection of work done in the eastern part of the County.

Total receipts for the month were $402,000. of which $391,000 were grants. $5,000. in taxes were collected. Payments amounted to $163.194. A loan for $399,000. was repaid and another $225,000 was borrowed.

Fluoride Not Dangerous, Saves Estimated 36 Dollars

Tests in many parts of the world, including Stratford and Brantford, Ontario, show that when fluoride is naturally present or is added to the water to the extent of about one part of fluoride to one million parts of water that the youngsters using this water during tooth developement have fifty to sixty percent less tooth decay than those using water containing no fluoride.

The fluoride is incorporated during tooth development in minute amounts in the enamel making it more resistant to decay. It is most effective when it is available to the child from the prenatal period on. But even a youngster who first gets it at eight or ten will be benefitted, although to a lesser degree.

In areas where people have drunk water containing fluoride all their lives, the teeth of the adults as well as the children have far less decay than in areas without it.

IS IT DANGEROUS

No evidence of any health hazard has ever been shown where water is fluoridated in the recommended amount. For example, the inhobitants of Stratford have been using city water containing 1.6 parts of fluoride per million parts of water for forty years and they are just as healthy as people living in any other Canadian city; in fact more so because they have such good teeth.

In some areas the natural water contains two or three times as much fluoride. This does not effect the people's general health and their teeth are resistant to decay but many of the teeth develop opaque white or even brown patches which are unsightly. This does not occur when the amount is limited to 1 to 1.5 parts per million. Over ninety percent of the very small amount of fluoride that is drunk in the water is promptly lost in the urine and perspiration.

Fluoridation has been under study for the last thirty-five years and especially widely and thoroughly for the last twelve years. All of these studies have shown its effectiveness and harmlessness in the amounts suggested for fluoridating water.

WHAT ABOUT ARTIFICIAL FLUORIDE?

This is no different from natural fluoridation. The effect is due to the free fluorine irons in the water, and these are the same no matter what active fluoride compound is added or is present naturally.

The fluoride does not interfere with the use of the water in any common commercial process. It also does not affect the taste of the water.

It costs from about nine to fourteen cents per person per year to fluoridate city water. Dentists have calculated that for every dollar you spend in taxes to have your child's water fluoridated, you save thirty-six dollars in dentist's bills.

IS THERE ANOTHER METHOD?

Mothers can't fluoridate their youngsters' water because they can't measure out small enough amounts of fluorine to add. Dentists have devised a way of painting the teeth with a weak solution of fluoride. To be effective, the teeth have to be cleaned and repaired before it is applied; it has to be done by an expert and requires many treatments. It is not quite as efficient in reducing decay and is much more expensive. If your water supply is not fluoridated, you would be wise to ask your dentist about giving these special treatments to your children. Work is being done on the value of toothpaste containing fluorine, but as yet the results are inconclusive.

WHY DO SOME PEOPLE FIGHT IT?

bering thousands there are always a few who oppose new methods.

In any professional group num Nearly all doctors and dentists wh have studies the scientific reports on this matter are now strongly in favor of it. One European physician who formerly practised in England and now is in the United States has written some articles on fluorosis, which is caused by large doses of fluoride. This has no connection with the minute amounts needed to prevent tooth decay.

Bus Thief Referred To Psychiatrist

Darrel Botsford Robertson, 62, charged with the theft of an Edmonton transit system trolley bus, appeared in court last week and was remanded for a psychiatric examination.

Robertson was charged after ETS driver Dave Johnston emerged from a downtown rest room Saturday night to see his bus being driven away.

Johnston hailed a cab and chased the bus for five blocks before it came to a stop after running off the trolley lines. There were no passengers on the bus when it was driven off.

A transit system spokesman said drivers have no way of immobilzing their trolley or gas buses except by leaving the doors open.

"The buses won't move with the doors open," he said, "but they can be moved by anyone who knows how to close the doors."

Seven-Ton Hay Stack Moved In 20 Minutes At Grassland Field Day

STONY PLAIN — A recent field day arranged by the Edmonton and District Grassland Improvement Association was held in the Golden Spike district with more than 50 interested persons in attendance. First on the programme was a hay stack moving demonstration by Louis Schoepp who mechanically loaded a complete stack weighing about seven-tons in twenty minutes. Mr. Schoepp stated the initial cost of his stack mover was quite high but the life of such a machine is much longer than a baler and maintenance costs are lower. Except for stacking, when one extra man is employed, he is able to do all his own haying and feeding. About seventy head of dairy stock are kept on the Schoepp farm.

Donald Laverty from the Soils and Feed Testing Laboratory at the University of Alberta was guest speaker following a break for lunch. His topic was "How Feed Testing Helps the Dairyman." It was stated that the testing service was originated to assist dairymen in particular but greater use of the service is being made by feeders of beef cattle. The cost for a regular test is one dollar and an additional dollar is charged for a special analysis which indicates the carotene (Vitamin A) and nitrate levels in the feed. This information is valuable to farmers in determining the proper kinds and amounts of food supplements required to form balanced rations needed by high producing cows.

Another feature was a visit to the Mike Nonay farm where O. G. Bratvold and A. W. Goettel from the Department of Agriculture discussed silage and the use of fertilizers. An excellent example of efficient land use was available for viewing at the Nonay farm. Several years ago a bulldozer had been used to move 5 to 6 feet from the tops of sandy hills to fill low areas. Following repeated applications of barnyard manure and commercial fertilizers the former unproductive field is now giving high yields of good alfalfa hay.

The field day wound up at the farm of Ray Hennig where a bale trailer capable of hauling 300 bales was demonstrated. The trailer, equipped with an escalator for loading and a winch for unloading, serves as a real labour-saver to load, haul and stack bales in a short time.

WILD ANIMALS VISIT AVENIR

AVENIR — Bears and lynx are reported seen throughout the district.

Ted St. Jean reports a big Bruin started to thresh some of his grain Wolf tracks are frequently seen close to civilization.

It is believed cattle are being chased during the night by some intruder. One morning one of Daniel's cows had an 11-inch stick caught tightly into the udder and had to be killed.

Good dogs are kept by many farmers to help keep the wild animals away from buildings.

Grain Enough To Fill Four Long Trains Handled At Ft. St. John

What is believed to be a Canadian record handling for a single country elevator has been established by the Alberta Wheat Pool at Fort St. John in British Columbia. In the past season, the Pool elevator at that point received a total of 849,611 bushels of grain. This is more than nine times the average handling of all country elevators in Alberta and British Columbia.

The agent in charge of the elevator, Owen Hughson, figures this is enough grain to fill four long trainloads or one of the largest cargo ships now in use. Had all of the grain been wheat, it would have been sufficient to provide every man, woman and child in Canada with nearly three loaves of bread. However, while handlings were mainly wheat, they also included oats, barley and flax.

Fort St. John lies at the northern end of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in the Peace River block of British Columbia. Elevators were built there only four years ago when the rail line was extended to the point. Grain now comes in from as far as 200 miles up the Alaska Highway and Fort St. John has become one of the large grain marketing points in the West.

Not far behind Fort St. John was the Pool's elevator at High Prairie operated by Ted Murray, which topped all Pool elevators in Alberta with a handling of 758,928 bushels. a figure only once before surpassed in Alberta. That was by Ted's father, Harry Murray, at Sexsmith in 1941.

Another record may have been established by Pool elevators at Girouxville, Falher and Donnelly, also in the Peace River area. These elevators, located on a nine-mile stretch of track, handled 2,184,000 bushels. The Wheat Pool states that it is doubtful if any other similar sized area can match this figure.

An extremely big crop throughout the Peace River area last year made possible last year's large handlings.

Dental Program Proves Success

The Vegreville Health Unit has expressed appreciation of the help received in the recent dental program as follows:

"Sincere thanks are extended to the School Superintendent, Principals, teachers, volunteer dental assistants and all who helped throughout the Vegreville Health Unit area to make the preventive dental program a success

"The efforts of Miss Evelyn Winnick of Chipman, Miss Elizabeth Mischuk of St. Michael, Miss Margaret Hewko of Mundare and Miss Sylvia Thomas of Andrew, who so kindly volunteered their time assisting Mr. Wong, is highly commended by all.

Bill Elliot Wins Calf-Roping Event At Thorhild Stampede

THORHILD — Several contestants who did well in saddle bronc riding, bareback riding, calf roping and wild cow milking and a horse, which lived up to its reputation as yet to be ridden, highlighted the first day of the two-day first annual rodeo and stampede sponsored by the Thorhild Community Association

While the several fairly heavy showers during the morning and early afternoon may have been responsible for cutting down the attendance on the first day, the rain certainly did not seem to affect this community's western spirt.

During the morning as cowboys from throughout Alberta and British Columbia, as well as visitors from near and far, began to line the streets, one observer remarked that this town was beginning to look like the famous western Dodge City on TV. By 1:00 p.m. an estimated crowd of about 1400 had gathered to watch the western parade. Due to wet ground the Rodeo was postponed until late afternoon.

Following the introduction of the Mayor of Thorhild, Dave Yachimec, and the rodeo officials, contestants went into action commencing with calf roping, in which Bill Elliot of Simons Valley took first prize. His time was 20 seconds; second was Melton Block of Dewberry with 28.5 seconds and third was Garry Noyes of Red Deer with 32 seconds.

In the saddle bronc riding event, Bill Sands of Rocky Mountain House took first prize with 184 points; Willie Hagan of Pentiction, B.C., was second with 178 points; George Norgard of Sundrie and Archie Craig of Nanton were tied for third and fourth place.

In bare back riding Bill Sands of Rocky Mountain House also took the first prize with the same number of points as in saddle bronc riding. Archie Craig and Harvie Norcott of Caroline were tied for second and third place with 180 points each. Jim Robertson of Bothrel, Alta. took 4th with 172 points.

Disarmament Possible States World Congress

By MRS. R. G. POWERS

Delegates from many countries and representing many professions, trades and avocations met in the Congress Palace in the Kremlin in Moscow, July 9 to 14, to discuss general disarmament and peace.

The Congress Palace is a new and beautiful building resembling our Jubilee Auditorium in atmosphere, architecture, and appointments. It seats 6000 people. There are two balconies. The side walls are finished in wood very like the walls of our auditorium. To the left of the large stage and in the wall are glassed-in booths for the translators. On the arm of each comfortable seat is the simultaneous translation radio set. The speakers were allowed 10 minutes each to present their views and their speeches were translated into five languages which were put out over these sets. English was marked number two on our dial, so we set it at 2 and heard all speeches in English.

The formal presidium setting was used for the conduct of the Congress. The curtains were drawn back and against a large white backdrop chairs were arranged in two rows. Here representatives of the delegations from each country sat making up the presidium. The chairman sat in the middle of the first row. The speaker took the rostrom which was set up immediately in front of and lower than the chairman's seat. Immediately in front of the first row of the presidium members was a mass of flowers from one end of the row to the other.

The sessions were from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Breaks were taken at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. thus making 4 two-hour sessions a day. The chairing of these sessions was done by representatives from many countries each taking a two-hour session. It was interesting to note that the meeting was brought to order by a woman member of the planning committee and that the first and several other sessions were chaired by women.

The delegates from each country sat together in a section of the auditorium. Each section had a card attached to the seat back on the aisle naming the country. It was very easy to find the various delegations and to meet delegates.

The Congress Palace had large mezzanine lobby flors, like our auditorium, with broad stairways. Escalators are used to take people to the dining room which is on the top floor. This dining room covered the whole of the Palace floor with a mezzanine effect on the sides and front entrance. All delegates had lunch here and had the opportunity of meeting and talking with delegates of other countries. The floors were covered over-all with a rug of royal blue. White linen table cloths were used. The dinnerware was white with a gold band and flowers were used extensively on the tables at all times.

There was much freedom in the conduct of the meeting. Photographers were about all the time and quite obviously by color and dress from all countries. Some enterprizing ones took pictures of each delegation, pictures inside and outside the auditorium and had them for sale at tables on the mezzanine floors. The most enterprizing seemed to be from Africa. It was rather interesting to see about the third day, delegates from the USA and Africa standing in the aisle of the auditorium discussing the light and lens settings on their cameras.

There were many speakers and many points of view expressed ranging from nationalistic to scientific to humanistic. After three days of speeches the delegates broke into groups called commissions to discuss various aspects of disarnament. There were four groups of commissions. The first to deal with the political and technical aspects, the second with the economical aspects, the third with independence of nations in relation to disarnament and the fourth with the moral aspect.

The following summarizes the thoughts expressed. "The arms race increases tension and mistrust between nations. The tension and mistrust between nations promotes the arms race. A vicious circle has been created. The destructive power of weapons grows more and more frightful, yet voices are heard demanding the unleashing of a preventive war. Nevertheless, we firmly believe that disarmament is not only imperative, it is possible. No longer is it a dream only of the best minds of humanity. For the first time in history it has become a practical task facing each and every one of us."

Two Little Girls Found Locked In Vacant Apartment Bathroom

Two bewildered and hungry little girls were found locked in the bathroom of a vacant apartment Tuesday of last week after a wide-spread 48-hour search. They were unharmed.

They said they had locked themselves in while at play Sunday afternoon and waited patiently for rescue while an intensive search west on all around them and spread throughout the metropolitan Washington, D.C. area.

Not a clue was found until two FBI men, backtracking over the whole area, came upon a jammed bathrom door in an unoccupied apartment less than a block from the missing girls' home.

Inside they found Rita Ohlgren and Maria Teresa Morley, both 7. Neither had eaten since Sunday noon, although there was plenty of water to drink.

Flabbergasted, agents U. Leroy Sweeney and Lansing P. (Pete) Logan demanded:

"Are you the little girls we're looking for?"

Students of this age readily admit that a coeducational school offers certain advantages.

Local Woman Manages Store, Is Active In Public Service

VILNA — Mrs. Popowich runs a store and helps farm and truck with her husband at the foot of the new bridge at Shandro. A woman of great energy and strong convictions, she finds time, somehow, to serve the public well in many ways.

Last year she was elected regional director of the home and school association. She personally visited each group and offered of herself freely for service.

Keenly aware of the problems of youth-and-auto society she gave able discernment for professional guidance to interested groups. Mrs. Popowich has another year to complete her two-year term. It is seen that she is bubbling over with plans of great moment to the youth and the counsellors of youth.

It is early to say but she will definitely hear the heroic words at the end of her term, "Well done thou steady and faithful friend."

Over 70, Mrs. Parson Still Vivacious As A 12-Year-Old

By A. SOLAR

VILNA — Mrs. Parson is one of the oldest pioneers of Vilna. She has raised a large family almost single-handed because her husband died long ago. Never one to bemoan her fate but always up on the bit, Mrs. Parsons sparkles with wit and joy of living although it's anybody's guess how long since she passed the 70 mark. She clearly recalls Fort Victoria and the McDougall tradgedy.

She's just about as keenly aware of today's problems as any. Some young fry think they can befuddle grandma Parson only to find she can still pin their ears back in place, and with their own sauce, with the finesse of a Philadelphia lawyer. She looks forward to a trip to Vancouver this fall and she has been allowed to get a wee hint of it.

I asked Mrs. Parson if her memory is fading and she replied tersely, "Only about things I want to forget!"

Grandma didn't always get roses to bloom where she worked but the bloom in her cheeks is still there. She baby-sits at my place and when the TV is turned on it's hard to tell whose giggle is more vivacious, my 12-year-old daughter's or hers. They just dont come as durable as her any more.

Department Studies Fodder Shortage

A program is being prepared by the department of agriculture to assist farmers in the southern part of the province who face a shortage of fodder on account of lack of rain earlier this summer.

It was stated by Deputy Agriculture Minister R. N. Putnam that the need for help is not as great as the department had anticipated. Recent rains have helped bring on the growth of cereal crops throughout the south.

However, some farmers will probably need assistance he said. The federal government has already indicated its willingness to pay part of the cost of moving feed to farmers.

Mr. Putnam said the assistance program would probably be announced at an early date.

Three lots, which are situated west of the present teacherages in Grand Centre on the Grand Centre school site, have been purchased from the Town of Grand Centre. Still on the subject of teacherages, Valere's Construction of Bonnyville was awarded the contract in the amount of $1,599.00 for the supply and the installation of a water line to all Iron River teacherages.

The school division has received bids on and sold several former school sites. These consist of the Wendell School site which was sold to L. Sabatier for $6, the Dirleton site sold to J. Diugos for $25, the Muriel Creek site to H. Pardell of Ardmore for $20, the Lepage site to M. Matichuk of Garth for $25 and the Beaver Crossing site was purchased by F Kozlow for $250. These sites were sold on condition of payment of fees for transfer. No bids have as yet been received on the other sites advertised by the division and these will be transferred to either the municipal district, the department of municipal affairs or the department of lands and forests.

Two lots in Ardmore, numbers 17 and 18, were purchased from Mrs. Bordeleau for the sum of $10. In Cold Lake the erection of a supply room in the boot storage room, and the construction of a trophy cabinet were approved.
